

|                                 |                                                         |                                              |                                         |                               |
|---------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 2                               | 0                                                       | 2                                            | 4                                       | !                             |
| Started my CSCS certification   | Applied to graduate school (again)                      | Did not use my master's degree a single time | Left the country                        | Got into a relationship       |
| Changed my whole life direction | Sent that one email that's been in my drafts for a year | Hospital                                     | Audited by the IRS                      | Learned to play an instrument |
| Sent 5.13                       | Walked in Graduation                                    | FREE                                         | Avoided teen pregnancy for another year | Got COVID                     |
| Got a big-girl corporate job    | Ran a marathon                                          | Got injured                                  | Finished my thesis                      | Got published                 |
| Dropped phone off cliff         | Bought a new car                                        | Impacted by major natural disaster           | Went back to my horse girl roots        | Death of a loved one          |

|                                              |                                         |                               |                                                         |                                    |
|----------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|-------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 2                                     | 0                                | 2                      | 4                                                | !                           |
| Walked in Graduation                         | Audited by the IRS                      | Left the country              | Changed my whole life direction                         | Hospital                           |
| Did not use my master's degree a single time | Went back to my horse girl roots        | Got into a relationship       | Bought a new car                                        | Learned to play an instrument      |
| Got a big-girl corporate job                 | Avoided teen pregnancy for another year | FREE                   | Got COVID                                               | Applied to graduate school (again) |
| Finished my thesis                           | Impacted by major natural disaster      | Started my CSCS certification | Death of a loved one                                    | Ran a marathon                     |
| Got injured                                  | Got published                           | Sent 5.13                     | Sent that one email that's been in my drafts for a year | Dropped phone off cliff            |

|                               |                                    |                    |                                                         |                                              |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------------|--------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|
| 2                      | 0                           | 2           | 4                                                | !                                     |
| Bought a new car              | Impacted by major natural disaster | Audited by the IRS | Got published                                           | Avoided teen pregnancy for another year      |
| Started my CSCS certification | Got a big-girl corporate job       | Got injured        | Sent that one email that's been in my drafts for a year | Got into a relationship                      |
| Sent 5.13                     | Death of a loved one               | FREE        | Ran a marathon                                          | Finished my thesis                           |
| Walked in Graduation          | Learned to play an instrument      | Left the country   | Went back to my horse girl roots                        | Did not use my master's degree a single time |
| Got COVID                     | Applied to graduate school (again) | Hospital           | Changed my whole life direction                         | Dropped phone off cliff                      |