

| B                                                                | I                                                | N                                                      | G                                                         | O                                                                |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Has tried to explain their home culture to a German friend              | Has attended a German language class                    | Has accidentally spoken the wrong language in a conversation  | Has exchanged playlists or food recommendations with someone new | Has mixed up der/die/das at least once this week                        |
| Has learned a funny word in German that doesn't exist in their language | Has cooked a meal from their home country for others    | Has taken a photo with friends in front of a famous landmark  | Has made a friend from a completely different continent          | Has survived their first German winter                                  |
| Has been surprised by how quiet Germans are in class                    | Has had to pay cash because the store didn't take cards | FREE                                                   | Has celebrated a holiday from their home country in Germany      | Has joined a student club or Stammtisch                                 |
| Has shared a flat with someone from another culture                     | Has joined an Erasmus or international student event    | Has missed a bus or train because it left too exactly on time | Has struggled to open a German window the right way              | Has gone grocery shopping on a Sunday and realized everything is closed |
| Has felt homesick but also grateful to be abroad                        | Has learned the word Schadenfreude or Fernweh           | Has been surprised by how quiet Sundays are in Germany        | Has learned to say "Danke" automatically                         | Has been asked "Wie geht's?" and didn't know how to answer right away   |

| B                                                    | I                                                         | N                                                        | G                                                                | O                                                |
|-------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|
| Has survived their first German winter                      | Has been surprised by how quiet Sundays are in Germany           | Has navigated a German bureaucracy office (Bürgeramt visa etc.) | Has had to pay cash because the store didn't take cards                 | Has been surprised by how quiet Germans are in class    |
| Has joined a student club or Stammtisch                     | Has taken a photo with friends in front of a famous landmark     | Has attended a German language class                            | Has tried to explain their home culture to a German friend              | Has made a friend from a completely different continent |
| Has mixed up der/die/das at least once this week            | Has learned the word Schadenfreude or Fernweh                    | FREE                                                     | Has been asked "Wie geht's?" and didn't know how to answer right away   | Has learned to say "Danke" automatically                |
| Has cooked a meal from their home country for others        | Has exchanged playlists or food recommendations with someone new | Has made a spontaneous weekend trip somewhere in Europe         | Has visited more than three German cities                               | Has shared a flat with someone from another culture     |
| Has celebrated a holiday from their home country in Germany | Has missed a bus or train because it left too exactly on time    | Has accidentally spoken the wrong language in a conversation    | Has learned a funny word in German that doesn't exist in their language | Has traveled with FlixBus or Deutsche Bahn              |

|                                                                         |                                                                 |                                                         |                                                      |                                                                       |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| B                                                                | I                                                        | N                                                | G                                             | O                                                              |
| Has been surprised by how quiet Sundays are in Germany                  | Has watched a football game (Bundesliga or local team)          | Has visited more than three German cities               | Has cooked a meal from their home country for others | Has been asked "Wie geht's?" and didn't know how to answer right away |
| Has navigated a German bureaucracy office (Bürgeramt visa etc.)         | Has made a friend from a completely different continent         | Has discovered a new favorite German snack or food      | Has attended a German language class                 | Has tried to explain their home culture to a German friend            |
| Has learned a funny word in German that doesn't exist in their language | Has celebrated a holiday from their home country in Germany     | FREE                                             | Has mixed up der/die/das at least once this week     | Has joined a student club or Stammtisch                               |
| Has exchanged playlists or food recommendations with someone new        | Has learned to say "Danke" automatically                        | Has had to pay cash because the store didn't take cards | Has felt homesick but also grateful to be abroad     | Has missed a bus or train because it left too exactly on time         |
| Has traveled with FlixBus or Deutsche Bahn                              | Has discovered a café or spot that now feels like "their place" | Has shared a flat with someone from another culture     | Has joined an Erasmus or international student event | Has accidentally spoken the wrong language in a conversation          |