

B	I	N	G	O
Has tried to explain their home culture to a friend	Has attended a German language class	Has accidentally spoken the wrong language in a conversation	Has discovered a new favorite German snack or food	Has mixed up der/die/das at least once this week
Has learned a funny word in German that doesn't exist in their language	Has celebrated a holiday from their home country in Germany	Has taken a photo with friends in front of a famous landmark	Has made a friend from a completely different continent	Has cooked a meal from their home country for others
Has missed a bus or train because it left too exactly on time	Has survived their first German winter	Has been surprised by how quiet Germans are	Has learned to say "Danke" automatically	Has gotten confused by a recycling or Pfand machine
Has had to pay cash because the store didn't take cards	Has shared a flat with someone from another culture	Has joined an Erasmus or international student event	Has made a spontaneous weekend trip somewhere in Europe	Has struggled to open a German window the right way
Has gone grocery shopping on a Sunday and realized everything is closed	Has felt homesick but also grateful to be abroad	Has learned the word Schadenfreude or Fernweh	Has exchanged playlists or food recommendations with someone new	Has been surprised by how quiet Sundays are in Germany

B	I	N	G	O
Has learned to say "Danke" automatically	Has learned a funny word in German that doesn't exist in their language	Has joined an Erasmus or international student event	Has been asked "Wie geht's?" and didn't know how to answer right away	Has survived their first German winter
Has been surprised by how quiet Sundays are in Germany	Has mixed up der/die/das at least once this week	Has gotten confused by a recycling or Pfand machine	Has been surprised by how quiet Germans are	Has had to pay cash because the store didn't take cards
Has taken a photo with friends in front of a famous landmark	Has attended a German language class	Has tried to explain their home culture to a friend	Has learned the word Schadenfreude or Fernweh	Has joined a student club or Stammtisch
Has cooked a meal from their home country for others	Has exchanged playlists or food recommendations with someone new	Has made a spontaneous weekend trip somewhere in Europe	Has visited more than three German cities	Has missed a bus or train because it left too exactly on time
Has made a friend from a completely different continent	Has struggled to open a German window the right way	Has celebrated a holiday from their home country in Germany	Has accidentally spoken the wrong language in a conversation	Has traveled with FlixBus or Deutsche Bahn

B	I	N	G	O
Has been surprised by how quiet Germans are	Has watched a football game (Bundesliga or local team)	Has visited more than three German cities	Has cooked a meal from their home country for others	Has been asked "Wie geht's?" and didn't know how to answer right away
Has mixed up der/die/das at least once this week	Has made a friend from a completely different continent	Has discovered a new favorite German snack or food	Has attended a German language class	Has tried to explain their home culture to a friend
Has learned a funny word in German that doesn't exist in their language	Has celebrated a holiday from their home country in Germany	Has joined an Erasmus or international student event	Has missed a bus or train because it left too exactly on time	Has had to pay cash because the store didn't take cards
Has learned to say "Danke" automatically	Has gotten confused by a recycling or Pfand machine	Has felt homesick but also grateful to be abroad	Has made a spontaneous weekend trip somewhere in Europe	Has traveled with FlixBus or Deutsche Bahn
Has struggled to open a German window the right way	Has joined a student club or Stammtisch	Has accidentally spoken the wrong language in a conversation	Has been surprised by how quiet Sundays are in Germany	Has learned the word Schadenfreude or Fernweh