

B	I	N	G	O
Has tried to explain their home culture to a friend	Has accidentally spoken the wrong language in a conversation	Has discovered a new favorite German snack or food	Has missed a bus or train because it left too exactly on time	Has joined an Erasmus or international student event
Has celebrated a holiday from their home country in Germany	Has taken a photo with friends in front of a famous landmark	Has learned to say "Danke" automatically	Has attended a German language class	Has struggled to open a German window the right way
Has been asked "Wie geht's?" and didn't know how to answer right away	Has gotten confused by a recycling or Pfand machine	Has had to pay cash because the store didn't take cards	Has shared a flat with someone from another culture	Has joined a student club or Stammtisch
Has made a spontaneous weekend trip somewhere in Europe	Has felt homesick but also grateful to be abroad	Has learned a funny word in German that doesn't exist in their language	Has exchanged playlists or food recommendations with someone new	Has been surprised by how quiet Germans are
Has been surprised by how quiet Sundays are in Germany	Has learned the word Schadenfreude or Fernweh	Has cooked a meal from their home country for others	Has made a friend from a completely different continent	Has visited more than three German cities

B	I	N	G	O
Has mixed up der/die/das at least once this week	Has made a spontaneous weekend trip somewhere in Europe	Has learned to say "Danke" automatically	Has shared a flat with someone from another culture	Has been surprised by how quiet Germans are
Has been surprised by how quiet Sundays are in Germany	Has made a friend from a completely different continent	Has learned a funny word in German that doesn't exist in their language	Has celebrated a holiday from their home country in Germany	Has learned the word Schadenfreude or Fernweh
Has attended a German language class	Has gotten confused by a recycling or Pfand machine	Has accidentally spoken the wrong language in a conversation	Has joined an Erasmus or international student event	Has tried to explain their home culture to a friend
Has watched a football game (Bundesliga or local team)	Has visited more than three German cities	Has cooked a meal from their home country for others	Has been asked "Wie geht's?" and didn't know how to answer right away	Has missed a bus or train because it left too exactly on time
Has discovered a café or spot that now feels like "their place"	Has had to pay cash because the store didn't take cards	Has discovered a new favorite German snack or food	Has felt homesick but also grateful to be abroad	Has traveled with FlixBus or Deutsche Bahn

B	I	N	G	O
Has cooked a meal from their home country for others	Has shared a flat with someone from another culture	Has joined a student club or Stammtisch	Has missed a bus or train because it left too exactly on time	Has accidentally spoken the wrong language in a conversation
Has visited more than three German cities	Has discovered a new favorite German snack or food	Has been surprised by how quiet Sundays are in Germany	Has learned a funny word in German that doesn't exist in their language	Has had to pay cash because the store didn't take cards
Has gone grocery shopping on a Sunday and realized everything is closed	Has tried to explain their home culture to a friend	Has been asked "Wie geht's?" and didn't know how to answer right away	Has struggled to open a German window the right way	Has attended a German language class
Has been surprised by how quiet Germans are	Has discovered a café or spot that now feels like "their place"	Has taken a photo with friends in front of a famous landmark	Has gotten confused by a recycling or Pfand machine	Has joined an Erasmus or international student event
Has made a spontaneous weekend trip somewhere in Europe	Has celebrated a holiday from their home country in Germany	Has exchanged playlists or food recommendations with someone new	Has made a friend from a completely different continent	Has learned the word Schadenfreude or Fernweh