

Have you ever...

|                                                                |                                                              |                                                         |                                                                   |                                                                       |
|----------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Tripped or stumbled and pretended it was intentional.          | Been absolutely sure you'd met someone before... and hadn't. | Gone to bed early and still felt tired the next day.    | Said "I'm just resting my eyes" and fell asleep.                  | Laughed at a joke you didn't understand-just in case.                 |
| Checked the fridge multiple times hoping new food appeared.    | Tried to fix something yourself and made it worse.           | Packed for a trip and still forgot something essential. | Been to a country mainly because of a very cheap flight.          | Tried a new hobby and abandoned it very quickly.                      |
| Walked confidently in the wrong direction and committed to it. | Been to a place mainly because "everyone else was going".    | FREE                                             | Got food poisoning on a trip and still talk about it years later. | Got sunburned even though you "weren't in the sun that long".         |
| Told a story that didn't land and finished it anyway.          | Had a haircut you pretended to like until it grew out.       | Promised yourself an early night and failed.            | Googled a symptom and briefly accepted your fate.                 | Ordered food that looked amazing online and arrived... disappointing. |
| Bought something "practical" that was clearly not practical.   | Sent a message to the wrong person and noticed immediately.  | Felt proud of surviving something very minor.           | Woken up convinced it was a different day.                        | Forgotten someone's name immediately after they told you.             |

Have you ever...

|                                                                   |                                                               |                                                          |                                                                       |                                                              |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------|
| Walked confidently in the wrong direction and committed to it.    | Woken up convinced it was a different day.                    | Been to a country mainly because of a very cheap flight. | Had a haircut you pretended to like until it grew out.                | Checked the fridge multiple times hoping new food appeared.  |
| Said "I'm just resting my eyes" and fell asleep.                  | Got sunburned even though you "weren't in the sun that long". | Gone to bed early and still felt tired the next day.     | Ordered food that looked amazing online and arrived... disappointing. | Been to a place mainly because "everyone else was going".    |
| Got food poisoning on a trip and still talk about it years later. | Been absolutely sure you'd met someone before... and hadn't.  | FREE                                              | Googled a symptom and briefly accepted your fate.                     | Promised yourself an early night and failed.                 |
| Forgotten someone's name immediately after they told you.         | Tripped or stumbled and pretended it was intentional.         | Felt proud of surviving something very minor.            | Told a story that didn't land and finished it anyway.                 | Bought something "practical" that was clearly not practical. |
| Laughed at a joke you didn't understand-just in case.             | Got emotionally attached to a random object.                  | Tried a new hobby and abandoned it very quickly.         | Packed for a trip and still forgot something essential.               | Tried to fix something yourself and made it worse.           |

Have you ever...

|                                                             |                                                          |                                                                |                                                                       |                                                           |
|-------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------|
| Told a story that didn't land and finished it anyway.       | Googled a symptom and briefly accepted your fate.        | Walked confidently in the wrong direction and committed to it. | Forgotten someone's name immediately after they told you.             | Said "I'm just resting my eyes" and fell asleep.          |
| Sent a message to the wrong person and noticed immediately. | Tried a new hobby and abandoned it very quickly.         | Woken up convinced it was a different day.                     | Had a haircut you pretended to like until it grew out.                | Been to a place mainly because "everyone else was going". |
| Promised yourself an early night and failed.                | Been to a country mainly because of a very cheap flight. | FREE                                                    | Got food poisoning on a trip and still talk about it years later.     | Gone to bed early and still felt tired the next day.      |
| Got emotionally attached to a random object.                | Laughed at a joke you didn't understand-just in case.    | Bought something "practical" that was clearly not practical.   | Been absolutely sure you'd met someone before... and hadn't.          | Tripped or stumbled and pretended it was intentional.     |
| Tried to fix something yourself and made it worse.          | Packed for a trip and still forgot something essential.  | Got sunburned even though you "weren't in the sun that long".  | Ordered food that looked amazing online and arrived... disappointing. | Felt proud of surviving something very minor.             |