

B	I	N	G	O
mollusks	An animal without a backbone.	Hollow-bodied animals have a hollow _____.	They use _____ to get food and for protection.	Surfer Sponge
Hollow-bodied animals	arthropods	The body of a sponge contains many _____.	Coral	They live in water.
_____ are the simplest group of invertebrates.	spiny-skinned animals	FREE	Food and waste go in and out of its _____.	Sponges
Sponges can _____ body parts.	Tube Sponge	Sponges have no special _____ or _____ part for digesting food.	Jellyfish	The _____ carry food and oxygen to the center of the sponges body.
Hollowed-bodied animals live in the _____.	Get oxygen from the water.	They have _____ body opening called the mouth.	worms	Hollow-bodied animals can _____ body parts.

B	I	N	G	O
spiny-skinned animals	Coral	They use _____ to get food and for protection.	Hollow-bodied animals	The body of a sponge contains many _____.
Hollow-bodied animals have a hollow _____.	worms	Surfer Sponge	Get oxygen from the water.	They live in water.
Sponges can _____ body parts.	Food and waste go in and out of its _____.	FREE	Sponges	An animal without a backbone.
Jellyfish	They have _____ body opening called the mouth.	mollusks	Hollow-bodied animals can _____ body parts.	Tube Sponge
Sponges have no special _____ or _____ part for digesting food.	The _____ carry food and oxygen to the center of the sponges body.	_____ are the simplest group of invertebrates.	arthropods	Hollowed-bodied animals live in the _____.

B	I	N	G	O
Get oxygen from the water.	They have _____ body opening called the mouth.	Coral	The _____ carry food and oxygen to the center of the sponges body.	Food and waste go in and out of its _____.
mollusks	Sponges can _____ body parts.	Sponges have no special _____ or _____ part for digesting food.	arthropods	Surfer Sponge
_____ are the simplest group of invertebrates.	Hollow-bodied animals can _____ body parts.	FREE	Tube Sponge	Jellyfish spiny-skinned animals	They live in water.	They use _____ to get food and for protection.	worms	Hollow-bodied animals have a hollow _____.
Sponges	An animal without a backbone.	The body of a sponge contains many _____.	Hollow-bodied animals	Hollowed-bodied animals live in the _____.