The hospital was a refrigerator.	The snow swaddled the earth like a mother would her infant child.	FREE	Tim takes time to teach	As blind as a bat
The chalk erased the board	My shoes said hello	The stars danced playfully in the moonlit sky.	Bing!	Pam purchased paper plates
The river swallowed the earth as the water continued to rise higher and higher.	Sensory Detail	The flowers waltzed in the gentle breeze.	The snow is a white blanket.	The slide on the playground was a hot stove.

The alligator's teeth are white daggers.	Pam purchased paper plates	I could hear the loud music	As boring as watching paint dry	As bright as a button
The bread smelled fresh	Speak your mind - Say what you really feel	FREE	She is a peacock.	As black as coal
The stars danced playfully in the moonlit sky.	As brave as a lion	The ocean danced in the moonlight.	My shoes said hello	As bold as brass
Onomatopoeia	The wind howled its mighty objection.	As American as apple pie	Tim takes time to teach	The sun glared down at me from the sky.

America is a melting pot.	The car was suffering and was in need of some TLC.	The moon winked at me through the clouds above.	Swoosh!	As black as coal

Get cold feet - Be nervous	His head is in the clouds	FREE	The cow sang a song	Time flew and before we knew it it was time for me to go home.
The ocean waves lashed out at the boat and the storm continued to brew.	The hospital was a refrigerator.	The coat felt soft	The run down house appeared depressed.	As bold as brass
Be in hot water - Be in trouble	The first rays of morning tiptoed through the meadow.	Cross your fingers - For good luck	The flowers waltzed in the gentle breeze.	The bees played hide and seek with the flowers as they buzzed from one to another.
