Tight as fuzzy skin on peaches.	Annie ate apples all afternoon.	All that glitters isn't gold.	Eleanor eats eggplant everyday.	Straight like legs on wooden stools.
One cookie hides the moon.	Crash.	The trees bowed as I drove by.	Quiet as a school at night.	Black as words on printed pages.
The house sighed as it settled.	We pile our peas up mountain high.	FREE	Boom.	Quack.
It was so hot you could fry an egg on the side walk.	My brother is a dragon.	The cloud is crying raindrop tears.	My mom's a teddy bear.	Sally sells seashells by the seashore.
The dogs paws were the size of frying pans.	Soup is deeper than the sea.	Happy like a bird in flight.	Long as thread unrolled from spools.	Giggles.

Our school is a zoo.	My brother is a dragon.	Everything except the sink.	Buzz.	Clang.
Peter Piper Pickle picker.	One cookie hides the moon.	My sister is a tall giraffe.	Bonnie baked bagels because Betsy bounced basketballs.	The house sighed as it settled.
Can't have cake and eat it too.	That kid is a gorilla.	FREE	It was so hot you could fry an egg on the side walk.	Long as thread unrolled from spools.

Straight like legs on wooden stools.	Our noodles stretch a mile.	Boom.	Doggie doo doo duty.	Eleanor eats eggplant everyday.
