

| A                                                     | D                                                    | T                                                   | F                                            | G                                                               |
|-------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------|
| savanna                                               | orchidsvinespalms                            | Estuary                                             | evaporationcondensationprecipitation | Tundra                                                          |
| Canopy                                                | organ pipecactuskangaroo ratgila monster | coldbloodedhavescales                   | 75 to 150cm or 30to 60 in.           | interactionbetweenliving andnon livingorganisms |
| tallesttree inthe world                       | Africa                                               | FREE                                         | Prairiedogs andbison livethere   | Prairies                                                        |
| imaginaryline thatdivides theEarth in two | Snow                                                 | dry placesless than10 in. ofrain a year | Lots oflightningin thisplace     | close thetap whilebrushingyour teeth                |
| CaliforniaCoastalforest                       | fruitingbody offungi/cap                     | Cariboupolarbears                           | you canfind manyflowersthere     | Coal oilnaturalgas                                      |

| A                                            | D                               | T                                                   | F                                            | G                                                 |
|----------------------------------------------|---------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|
| tallest tree in the world                    | you can find many flowers there | 75 to 150 cm or 30 to 60 in.                        | Snow                                         | Canopy                                            |
| evaporationcondensationprecipitation | Prairies                        | Estuary                                             | close the tap while brushing your teeth      | Africa                                            |
| Prairie dogs and bison live there            | orchidsvinespalms       | FREE                                         | Lots of lightning in this place              | dry places less than 10 in. of rain a year        |
| Coal oilnatural gas                      | savanna                         | Cariboupolar bears                              | imaginary line that divides the Earth in two | California Coastal forest                         |
| Tundra                                       | Palm Oil                        | interaction between living and non living organisms | cold bloodedhave scales                  | organ pipe cactuskangaroo ratgila monster |

| A                                                     | D                                                               | T                                        | F                                                | G                                            |
|-------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|
| imaginaryline thatdivides theEarth in two | Lots oflightningin thisplace                        | tallesttree inthe world          | Coal oilnaturalgas                       | evaporationcondensationprecipitation |
| fruitingbody offungi/cap                      | interactionbetweenliving andnon livingorganisms | you canfind manyflowersthere | Snow                                             | Africa                                       |
| dry placesless than10 in. ofrain a year   | 75 to 150cm or 30to 60 in.                              | FREE                              | Prairiedogs andbison livethere       | Estuary                                      |
| Palm Oil                                              | Tundra                                                          | CaliforniaCoastalforest          | orchidsvinespalms                        | savanna                                      |
| organ pipecactuskangaroo ratgila monster  | coldbloodedhavescales                               | Prairies                                 | close thetap whilebrushingyour teeth | Cariboupolarbears                    |