

B	I	N	G	O
You are so confused you don't know what AYE or NAY means relative to the article	"This isn't {insert location} that won't work here"	Mention of national politics	Someone comments on article already passed; quickly and loudly corrected by crowd	Person next to you has brought very noisily wrapped/smelly/crunchy food
Inside joke between moderator and person making comment	Virtues of democracy extoled	Reminder of Robert's Rules	Citizen points out clerical error in value less than $1.00	Seemingly innocuous article in warning results in 45 minute debate
Speaker too far from mic	Crowd corrects moderator who is out of order	FREE	Quiet speaker says "I don't need the mic."	Mud Boots
Napping	Someone makes a friendly amendment	Person commenting includes number of years in residence as if to lend more credibility to opinion	Screaming Child	Someone uses the phrase 'slippery slope'
Moderator calls someone out of order	Minority opinion; anticipating being the minority during voice vote say AYE/NAY in LOUD voice	Problem with mic; someone under the age of 15 fixes it	Doughnuts	Impassioned speech relying on emotion to sway favorable response

B	I	N	G	O
Quiet speaker says "I don't need the mic."	Person next to you has brought very noisily wrapped/smelly/crunchy food	Crowd corrects moderator who is out of order	Speaker too far from mic	Doughnuts
Someone comments on article already passed; quickly and loudly corrected by crowd	Mud Boots	Napping	Virtues of democracy extoled	Citizen points out clerical error in value less than $1.00
You say AYE without realizing what you're voting on	Problem with mic; someone under the age of 15 fixes it	FREE	Inside joke between moderator and person making comment	Mention of national politics
Screaming Child	Seemingly innocuous article in warning results in 45 minute debate	Reminder of Robert's Rules	Someone makes a friendly amendment	Impassioned speech relying on emotion to sway favorable response
"This isn't {insert location} that won't work here"	You are so confused you don't know what AYE or NAY means relative to the article	You say NAY without realizing what you're voting on	Malcontent grumbling from minority opinion in back of auditorium	Minority opinion; anticipating being the minority during voice vote say AYE/NAY in LOUD voice

B	I	N	G	O
Quiet speaker says "I don't need the mic."	Inside joke between moderator and person making comment	Screaming Child	Malcontent grumbling from minority opinion in back of auditorium	Citizen points out clerical error in value less than $1.00
"This isn't {insert location} that won't work here"	You say NAY without realizing what you're voting on	You say AYE without realizing what you're voting on	Impassioned speech relying on emotion to sway favorable response	Virtues of democracy extoled
Knitting	Someone makes a friendly amendment	FREE	Person commenting includes number of years in residence as if to lend more credibility to opinion	Seemingly innocuous article in warning results in 45 minute debate
Problem with mic; someone under the age of 15 fixes it	Napping	Mud Boots	Crowd corrects moderator who is out of order	Someone uses the phrase 'slippery slope'
Doughnuts	Speaker too far from mic	Person next to you has brought very noisily wrapped/smelly/crunchy food	Mention of national politics	Reminder of Robert's Rules