

| B                     | I                          | N                         | G                         | O                     |
|------------------------------|-----------------------------------|----------------------------------|----------------------------------|------------------------------|
| Tim takes time to teach      | Alliteration                      | Marks voice is velvet.           | The exam killed me!              | She is like a fish in water. |
| I saw seven sneaky snakes.   | The sun was a frying pan today.   | The bread floated in             | He was a beast on the ice.       | The desk groaned.            |
| The pig danced in the field. | personification                   | FREE                      | Hyperbole                        | My shoes said hello          |
| Personification              | The fire roared to life           | Sam sells seashells              | Music is the salve that soothes. | She is sweet like honey.     |
| Matt makes marbles on Monday | I am so hungry I can eat a horse. | The cow was as cute as a button. | simile                           | John slept like a log.       |

| B                                  | I                                  | N                           | G                                   | O                              |
|-------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------|------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| personification                           | He was abeast onthe ice.          | Theexamkilled me!          | I sawsevensneakysnakes.        | Thebreadfloated in            |
| Marksvoice isvelvet.              | simile                                    | She islike a fishin water. | I am sohungry Ican eat ahorse. | Thedeskgroaned.               |
| Personification                           | Hyperbole                                 | FREE                        | Myshoessaid hello                  | Alliteration                          |
| Music isthe salvethatsoothes. | The cowwas ascute as abutton. | Tim takestime toteach      | Johnslept likea log.               | The fireroaredto life         |
| Samsellsseashells                 | She issweet likehoney.            | The pigdanced inthe field. | The sunwas afrying pantoday.   | Mattmakesmarbles onMonday |

|                                   |                                  |                            |                                 |                                  |
|-----------------------------------|----------------------------------|----------------------------|---------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| B                          | I                         | N                   | G                        | O                         |
| I am so hungry I can eat a horse. | The cow was as cute as a button. | He was a beast on the ice. | She is sweet like honey.        | Hyperbole                        |
| Tim takes time to teach           | Personification                  | Sam sells seashells        | The sun was a frying pan today. | She is like a fish in water.     |
| The pig danced in the field.      | John slept like a log.           | FREE                | The fire roared to life         | Music is the salve that soothes. |
| personification                   | The desk groaned.                | The exam killed me!        | simile                          | Marks voice is velvet.           |
| My shoes said hello               | Alliteration                     | The bread floated in       | I saw seven sneaky snakes.      | Matt makes marbles on Monday     |