

|                                           |                                                |                                 |                                          |                                      |
|-------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------|------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| B                                  | I                                       | N                        | G                                 | O                             |
| Time skip                                 | Alien invasion (surprisingly common)           | Final shot with main characters | Series reaches natural conclusion        | Rapid callbacks and cameos           |
| Characters get updated/new designs        | Story continued by later media or spin-off     | Series gets screwed by network  | Badass climax or fight scene(s)          | Series reaches natural conclusion    |
| Someone re-learns old lesson              | Ultimate villain surpassing every previous one | FREE                     | Beloved character fucking dies           | Inconclusive arcs                    |
| Massive tonal shift from previous seasons | Shift in animation quality                     | New episodic format             | Hero obtains ultimate power or something | Relationship developing episode(s)   |
| Gay couple/character revealed             | Characters get final hurrah episodes           | Series goes out on a whimper    | Villain redemption or heroic corruption  | Epilogue speech/episode after finale |

| B                                       | I                                | N                          | G                                   | O                             |
|------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| Ultimate villain surpassing every previous one | Badass climax or fight scene(s)         | Series reaches natural conclusion | Characters get updated/new designs         | Series gets screwed by network       |
| Final shot with main characters                | Villain redemption or heroic corruption | Rapid callbacks and cameos        | Characters get final hurrah episodes       | Series reaches natural conclusion    |
| Massive tonal shift from previous seasons      | Beloved character fucking dies          | FREE                       | Inconclusive arcs                          | Alien invasion (surprisingly common) |
| Hero obtains ultimate power or something       | Series goes out on a whimper            | Time skip                  | Epilogue speech/episode after finale       | Shift in animation quality           |
| New episodic format                            | Relationship developing episode(s)      | Someone re-learns old lesson      | Story continued by later media or spin-off | Gay couple/character revealed        |

|                                                |                                           |                                   |                                            |                                          |
|------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| B                                       | I                                  | N                          | G                                   | O                                 |
| Characters get final hurrah episodes           | Series goes out on a whimper              | Badass climax or fight scene(s)   | Relationship developing episode(s)         | Beloved character fucking dies           |
| Time skip                                      | Massive tonal shift from previous seasons | New episodic format               | Story continued by later media or spin-off | Rapid callbacks and cameos               |
| Someone re-learns old lesson                   | Epilogue speech/episode after finale      | FREE                       | Shift in animation quality                 | Hero obtains ultimate power or something |
| Ultimate villain surpassing every previous one | Series reaches natural conclusion         | Series reaches natural conclusion | Villain redemption or heroic corruption    | Final shot with main characters          |
| Inconclusive arcs                              | Alien invasion (surprisingly common)      | Series gets screwed by network    | Characters get updated/new designs         | Gay couple/character revealed            |